

Kaizen Design Studio - Privacy Policy

When you visit kaizendesignstudio.com, we collect your information by placing cookies in your computer, or get the information after you've filled out the contact us form. Your data is protected by a variety of security measures we have implemented on the website. We do not sell or trade the information we gather from you. This information is used to personalize your experience, improve our customer service, improve the website, provide additional features, and send periodic emails. The stated privacy policy is not applicable to the information collected offline.

Our site may occasionally feature advertisements for third party services and products. Such products and services adhere to their own privacy policies, and therefore, we are not liable for the activities and content of these linked advertisements and websites. With your use of Kaizen Design Studio's website, it will be assumed you agree with our privacy policy. If you do not agree with our privacy policy, please cease the use of this website.